OKLAHOMA CITY FREE OF MARTIAL LAW RESTRICTIONS

Adjutant General Announces Withdrawal of Troops From the City.

ACTION NOT STATE-WIDE

Military Will Be Maintained in Cities Where Court-Martials Are in Session; Legislature Called to Meet October 17 for Ousting Governor.

By United Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 6.—Demobilization of National Guardsmen on duty in Oklahoma City, where Governor Walton has concentrated his martial law battle with the Ku Klux Klan, was announced today by Acting Adjutant General Charles Barrett.

The dismissal of the troops does not mean there has been any change made in the status of state-wide martial law, however, Barrett said. Guards will be maintained only in those cities where military courts are in session, it was explained. Soldiers here were withdrawn during the night.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 6.—A call for a special session of both houses of the legislature October 17, to investigate "the commisson of impeachable offenses by the officers of the state subject to impeachment" was issued here last night by W. D. McBee, representative from Stephens county.

The call was made under the alleged authority of a constitutional amendment proposed at the polls Tuesday. The summons set out that it was issued upon "written request signed by a majority of the members of the house of representatives asking that the legislature be convened pursuant to the mandate of the people."

In issuing the call, members of the House, who have opposed Governor J. C. Walton determined not to await the outcome of an injunction action instituted by the executive to prevent the state election board from certifying the returns of Tuesday's election to the secretary of state.

They proceeded upon the theory that a majority of the votes cast having been in favor of the amendment it became law without the formality of certification which they declared was mere routine without significance in law.

The October 17 meeting will be the second members of the House have attempted to hold. On September 26, they were dispersed by state troops acting on orders of Governor Walton, who charged that they were members of the Ku Klux Klan and that their gathering was unlawful under his decree of state wide martial law.

Hearing on the executive's injunction action against the state election board is set for next Tuesday.

HEADLESS MURDER VICTIM FOUND TO BE KITTANNING YOUTH

By United Press.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 6.—"That is my son."

J. E. McGregor, a special patrolman at the Mesta Machine Company at West Homestead, thus made positive today the identification of the South Side's headless murder victim as that of Charles "Chuck" McGregor, formerly of Kittanning.

The father said he had not heard from his son for several months. The last he heard of him was in Detroit. The son was 21 years old, the father said.

McGregor could throw no light on the murder—in fact, he said, he had no knowledge his son was in this section of the country.

Five other persons, four chums of the slain youth and a former employer, of Kittanning, also identified the body as that of McGregor.

The first clue as to the probable identity of the victim was furnished by Miss Inda West of Punxsutawney, at present a student nurse at Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia. She identified copies of the photographs found in the clothing as the ones she had sent to McGregor in Detroit several months ago.

Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general, is expected to come from Washington to direct the closing of the remaining saloons.

DISAPPEARANCE OF LUTHER COPE REMAINS MYSTERY

Local Printer Who Dropped From Sight Thursday Reported Twice.

MENTAL LAPSE, THEORY

Wife Learns Physician Had Informed Missing Man That Stomach Ailment With Which He Is Suffering Might Result in That Affliction.

No further word of Luther M. Cope, local printer, who disappeared from his establishment in Orchard alley early Thursday morning, has been received. Mrs. Cope heard this morning that he had been seen at Laisenring and she went there to ascertain if there was any truth in the clue.

The only other clue regarding the whereabouts of the man is the fact that he was seen on the West Side about 9:30 o'clock that morning by C. I. Fletcher of South Connellsville. Mr. Fletcher was driving a truck toward the east side at the time. He informed the police that he had spoken to Mr. Cope as the missing man walked westward. He left the office at 9:15.

There is a belief that Cope may have temporarily lost his mind and is wandering aimlessly about. Mrs. Cope says her husband did not carry much money with him and if he did board a train could not ride far on the cash in his clothes. He had no enemies to her knowledge, she says.

Cope, for some time, his wife said, has been suffering with stomach trouble and has been under the constant treatment of a physician. The doctor had warned that a lapse of memory was liable to occur and his leads to the belief that such a reason is responsible for his disappearance.

Mrs. Cope has made a detailed examination of her husband's business and finds nothing that would lead to despondency because of financial troubles.

Cope established his business here several months ago, moving from Scottdale, where he had conducted a shop for many years.

In the opinion of the police authorities Cope is not a victim of foul play. Police Chief Murphy assigned an officer to the case.

MANY MINORS AT WORK SIGN OF GOOD TIMES

By United Press.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 6.—Child labor in the Pittsburg industrial district has increased 60 per cent during a period of 12 months, it was revealed today by Charles H. Reisfer, director of attendance in the Pittsburg public schools. He based his statement on records of employment certificates issued to minors. These records show that over 2,000 employment certificates have been issued thus far in 1923, whereas only 1,553 were issued for the entire year 1922.

This is an indication of good times, the director said. "Hard times fill the schools, good times empty them," he said.

Americanization Urged by Lewis To Combat Reds

By United Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 6.—"Americanization is the best and only cure for individuals suffering from communism, bolshevism and the like."

Such was the opinion expressed today by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, attending the American Federation of Labor convention.

The American workman, the most intelligent in the world, will not follow the false gods of foreign propaganda, Lewis said. "Of course, there are 'red' tendencies in some of our unions but you will find that this element is largely confined to foreign-born, unnaturalized workers. The best way to combat this is to educate them to a point where they can become citizens and then make them citizens."

As the head of the largest union in the country Lewis is next in power in the federation to President Samuel Gompers and has been talked of as the logical successor to the presidency when Gompers steps out of office.

"Bituminous coal field conditions are not the best," Lewis declared, "due to the fact that only part time work is available for the men, but anthracite fields are running full blast under a recently-signed contract which is the best one ever entered into."

It is too early to predict what may happen when the bituminous coal miners and operators get together to discuss a new contract to succeed the one which expires in April, Lewis said. The action, whatever it may be, will be taken at a conference to be held in January.

Local Woman Takes Citizenship Papers

Sarah Rosenblum of Connellsville and Rosa Dellamer of Republic have the distinction of being the second and third women respectively to be admitted to citizenship of Fayette county. Under an Act of Congress of September 22, 1922, women are no longer admitted to citizenship on the strength of their husband's papers. Miss Rosenblum took out her first papers two years ago before the new act and was required to have two witnesses who have known her for the past five years.

Mrs. Dellamer made application by petition under the new Act which requires but two witnesses who have known the applicant continuously for one year. They were admitted, together with a class of 29 men, representing various nationalities. Judge E. H. Reppert admitted the class of 31.

Miss Lena Katz of Connellsville, niece of the late Henry Goldsmith was the first woman in Fayette county to be admitted, her application having been granted about two years ago.

LLOYD GEORGE KNOWS AMERICAN HISTORY, POLITICS

By United Press.

ABOARD LLOYD GEORGE'S SPECIAL TRAIN, ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 6. America began to unfold her beauty today before Lloyd George, and the little Welshman's keen eyes missed none of it.

As his special train sped up the Hudson, Lloyd George, his wife and his vivacious daughter, Megan, manifested keenest interest as Martin H. Glynn of Albany, former governor of New York, pointed out historic spots. Lloyd George displayed a wide knowledge of American Revolutionary history.

He and Glynn talked American politics informally for an hour as the train neared Albany.

"This," said Lloyd George, as he stood on the rear platform, looking over the Hudson, "is my first real holiday."

A great throng greeted him with smiles and affectionate welcome at Albany where a stop of 18 minutes was made.

Introduced to the crowd by Glynn as "the man who had done what all the kings, all the statesmen before him, and all the soldiers had been unable to do—settle the Irish question for all time," Lloyd George made a brief address expressing his great pleasure at the reception accorded him.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—After less than 24 hours in New York, David Lloyd George today started for Montreal on the second lap of his tour of the United States and Canada. His special train pulled out of the Grand Central station at 8:18.

The first lap ended last midnight when the little Welshman retired after a day crammed with incidents, including two speeches, a triumphal procession through the city, a luncheon, two audiences with the press and a musical play where he attracted much more attention than the actors.

Seven and a half hours of sleep sufficed. At 7:30 Lloyd George was up eager to get on with his trip. After breakfasting he started for the Grand Central Station.

The train was due to reach Montreal at 9:35 P. M.

CONVICTS STILL HOLD AT BAY STATE AND PRISON FORCES

Another Barrage of Rifle and Machine-Gun Fire Directed at Barricade.

USE OF DYNAMITE BANNED

Kentucky State Board of Charities Opposes Use of Explosive for Fear Damage Might Be Done to Penitentiary at Eddyville; Woman Arrested.

By United Press.

EDDYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 6.—Soldiers attempting to drive three convicts from their stronghold in the penitentiary today launched a fourth campaign of machine-gun and rifle fire against the crumbling brick walls of the state prison mess hall where the men are barricaded.

Preparations for blasting the prisoners from their fortress with dynamite were broken off under orders from the state board of charities and correction. The attacking forces directed their fire at a large breach in the north end of the two story mess hall. The chief hope of ending the siege today is that they may be able to batter the wall in.

Intermittent firing came from the dining hall at dawn today. Prison authorities said they believed two of the convicts were dead or wounded.

Military rule was in force at the prison. The declaration followed a visit of the charities board here last night. Newspaper reporters were barred from their press room inside the walls. News bulletins were given out at the prison gate. Warden Chilton said members of his staff claimed to have seen inside the up floor of the mess hall with field glasses. One of the convicts was said to have been seen moving about the room. Two other men were lying on the floor.

The ring surrounding the small fortress into which Monroe Walters, Lawrence Griffith and Harry Farland fled early Wednesday morning after killing three prison guards and wounding another was increased to 50 men during the night. J. R. Jones, clerk in the warden's office, said the soldiers were slowly closing in on the mess hall. An attempt may be made during the day to storm the building, he said.

E. F. Tachau, head of the state board of charities, said the board had stopped Warden Chilton's plan to dynamite the building because they feared the shots could not be regulated so as not to damage the cell house.

Killing Frost Comes With Coldest Snap of Season

The coldest night of the season was experienced last night the official thermometer today showed. It registered 34 degrees as the lowest point attained during the past 24 hours.

There was a killing frost in evidence this morning. It lay heavy and was not dispelled until the sun struck it full. To early risers the frost had the appearance of a light snow.

According to a report received from Ohiopyle there was an exceptionally heavy frost there yesterday morning with such a low temperature that a scum of ice was frozen on still water.

The forecast today predicts continued cool weather tonight, accompanied by another heavy frost. Beginning tomorrow, however, there should be a slowly rising temperature.

The maximum figure yesterday was also a new low record for this fall. The warmest period during the day was 58 degrees. Previous low temperatures had remained within the 60 degree column.

Two Fayette county coal and coke plants were sold at receivers' sales in Pittsburg at a price believed to set a new low valuation on such properties in this region, when W. M. Robinson, of the law firm of Reed, Smith & McClay purchased them for $200,000.

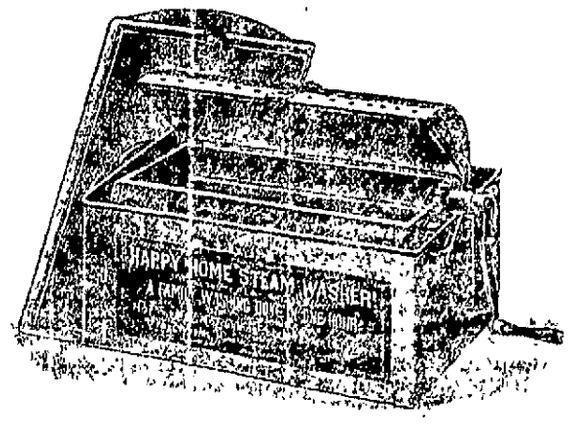
The Happy Home

STEAM WASHING MACHINE



12 to 17 Sheets Washed at One Time
A Washing in One Hour

No labor, no rubbing, no wash board or chemicals used. Any 12 year old child can operate the Happy Home Washing Machine. Works exactly like the large commercial laundry machines in the cities. It is a veritable little laundry machine made small enough for use in your homes. Large enough for any private family or hotel.

Easier, Quicker and Better Than a Power Washer

"We were anxious to try a Happy Home Steam Washer after reading your advertisements because we know Morris Hardware Company never pushed anything that wasn't a success. We were just at the point of getting a power machine when we tried the Happy Home. We like it very much and several of our neighbors are going to get them as soon as they can get in."

Mrs. Ivan Barnes, Unionville, O.

The Greatest Labor Saver Ever Invented for Women. No Home Complete Without It

While it only weighs 25 lbs., and only uses 4 gallons of water, think of the saving in carrying and heating water by using The Happy Home. It can be used on any cook stove or hot plate. It will wash more clothes at one time than any single tub washer made for family use, as long from 12 to 17 sheets at one cylinder full. It does away with the WASHBOARD and BOILER and washes anything from the finest lace curtains, feather pillows, blankets, quilts, comforts to the heaviest rag rug and overalls.

For Cold Packing Fruits and Vegetables

it can't be beat—cold packing 20 quarts at each time.

Colored clothes are washed fine in this machine. We do not boil or steam colored clothes but our instruction card with each washer teaches you how to wash the most delicate color in The Happy Home Washer.

A Trial in Your Own Home

will convince you that this little washer is even more than we claim for it.

DON'T WAIT! Call your dealer and have him send one to your home to try, and when tried you will never let it be taken from your home. You do not have to stand and turn the crank but as you pass by—doing your other work, turn it slowly for two or three minutes, then go about your work, occasionally during the 20 minutes of steaming, turn as before mentioned. When the clothes have steamed for 20 minutes, lift them out of washer into a tub of rinsing water as you do not have to wring them until after rinsing.

You Do Not Change the Water from the time you commence until you have finished your entire washing—merely add enough to each cylinder of clothes to equal 4 gallons, the amount required.

Germany Seeks to Shake the Shimmy

By GUS M. OLIEM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN (By mail to United Press).—Away with the shimmy and foxtrot! Bring back the good old German waltz and its masters.

This is a new note in the night-life of Berlin, H. M. Heidrich, authority on things terpsichorean, declares.

Every night—that is when police restrictions do not prohibit—Germany's youth, and "not so youth," flings a jazzy heel in restaurants, bars, cafes, dance-halls and cabarets.

But, says Heidrich, the pity of it is nobody dances the old German waltz. Nothing but rythmless foxtrots and shimmys, dances originating in the warm climate of Spain and negro dives of New Orleans.

PUBLIC GOOD WILL IN SPORTS.

It is sincerely hoped wiser and better counsels will prevail with respect to Sunday football games in this vicinity and that hereafter arrangements will be made to play only on week days.

Sentiment in this community does not look with favor upon desecration of what is commonly accepted as the Lord's Day, or the Sabbath. It is admitted that there are individual violations of the sanctity and former customs of the day, as there have always been, but not until this time has an effort been made to invite or induce the public generally to support an organized movement to make Sunday a day for engaging in sports or games heretofore held on on the secular days of the week.

Among the people in this vicinity who are ardent followers of football, baseball and other sports are many who have a conscientous regard for the sanctity of Sunday. By their training as young people and habits after becoming of mature years this day is regarded as the one day in the week when the activities incident to the other six should be so nearly suspended that the object of Sunday as a day of worship will not be lost to sight.

Having pride in the fact that this form of observance of the first day of the week has been no small factor in giving the whole state of Pennsylvania a well merited distinction as a state where the Sabbath Day has always been held in reverence, the people who are opposed to its desecration will not be able to give their support to any sport the promoters of which persist in their determination to disregard public sentiment by staging games on Sunday.

Far better will it be if the persons having the arrangement of the game schedules in charge will of their own accord eliminate all Sunday games rather than become parties to a court action with a view to restraining them from such a course. This community has a friendly interest in sports and has shown its readiness to support them but such support ought to be encouraged, not discouraged, as it certainly will be if Sunday games are not abandoned. Public good will ought to be as highly prized in sports as in business.

Our Divorce Record.

Pittsburg Gazette Times.

The Department of Commerce, reporting Census Bureau returns of marriages and divorces in 1922, states the results in three different ways. That is, there are three separate forms of comparisons, each one of which makes an impression different from the others. Last year there were 1,126,418 marriages solemnized in the United States. The total number of divorces granted was 148,551. Of marriages there were 1,033 for each 100,000 of the country's population, while of divorces there were but 136. There were 7.6 marriages to each divorce. One way it looks as if Cupid were doing a rushing business and his competitor were getting few into his ship. Another way it looks as if the god of love were being pretty hard pressed for the lead. In 1906 there were 1,040,681 marriages and 112,036 divorces. Figue this up and get the truth.

State returns are instructive. New York, whose divorce scandals are commonly regarded a national disgrace, has the smallest proportion of divorces and numerically fewer than nine other states. Its record is 22.6 marriages to each divorce. The other extreme is Nevada. South Carolina is omitted since no divorces are permissible in that state. Nevada, which provides release from hated bonds for some of New York's unhappily mated, can show only .9 of a marriage offsetting each of the divorces granted by its courts. At that Nevada granted only 1,026 divorces in 1922, against 4,22[illegible] granted in New York, which would seem to prove that the condemned leading industry of Reno isn't worth troubling about. For Pennsylvania there are 10[illegible] marriages to each divorce, much better than the country's average; for Ohio 5.2 and for West Virginia 11.6. Obviously divorces are numerous relatively to the ease with which they may be obtained. Which may or may not make an argument for amendment of statutes bearing on severance of the marriage relation.

It might be worth while, in connection with these statistics, to make a study of a recent manifestation. The days of the Borgias seem to be returning. Never before have the newspapers chronicled so many poisonings of husbands by wives or of wives by husbands. There may be something worse than divorce. Apparently those who wish to be rid of their legal mates will not be prevented.

SMILES.

A smile is lovely anywhere,
A symbol that no hate is there,
A touch of grace which all may wear.

Rich man or poor or great or low,
This common bond of nature know,
Their happiness a smile will show.

Though young or old the face may be,
By day by night, on land or sea,
A smile is always good to see.

The loveliest maiden, golden tressed,
In all her silks and laces dressed,
Must smile to look her prettiest.

Yet there are smiles, though fair to see,
Which are the gifts of flattery
And are as false as false can be.

And some will smile when they are sad,
Recalling happy hours they've had—
Old hearts must oft pretend they're glad.

And yet the fairest smile of all,
Which age may see and long recall,
Is that God gives a baby small.

So true it is, so filled with grace,
Surely an angel bends to trace
The smile upon a baby's face.

European Nations Fixing Status of the "Love Child"

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In England, Germany and other European countries a strenuous fight is being waged today to promote the status of the "unmarried mother" and her offspring, the "love child." The movement in Germany has been a striking feature of the post-revolutionary development of that country. The fight in Germany in behalf of the unmarried mother is described herewith in an article written for the United Press by Dr. Helene Stoecker, editor of the prominent Berlin social organ, "The New Generation," and an international authority on women's affairs.—The United Press, New York.)

By DR. HELENE STOECKER
(Written for the United Press)

BERLIN (By mail to the United Press).—For twenty years the German League for the Protection of Maternity has striven to improve the position of the unmarried mother with respect to her personal rights and her economic and social conditions. It has worked to protect unmarried mothers and their children from economic and moral dangers and to wipe out the prejudices prevailing against them.

The German constitution promises equal treatment to these unfortunates, but the struggle to translate the constitutional clauses into law has not yet attained its goal.

The aims of the League for the Protection of Maternity, which is affiliated with the International League for Protection of Maternity and Sexual Reform are as follows:

1.—Compulsory insurance for mothers.

2.—Abolition of legal discrimination against illegitimate children.

3.—The reform of maternity in its economic, moral and legal aspects.

4.—Abolition of contempt against illegitimate motherhood.

5.—Universal respect for the importance of motherhood.

In June, 1918, a great congress was held to improve the legal position of illegitimate children. All welfare organizations, as well as government officials, were represented.

Demands of Congress.

The congress demanded that the state and the large communities undertake the care of all illegitimate children. It was claimed that the illegitimate child should have the right to legally enforce acknowledgment of paternity from its father and the father's heirs.

The Norwegian law for children whose parents did not enter matrimony was passed in 1916. It gives the illegitimate child the right of its father's heritage and name. The child can demand sustenance and education from its father, as well as from its mother. The child lives with its mother. If the mother dies or neglects the child, the guardian may entrust it to the father. The parent under whose care the child is living must maintain it as if it were legitimate; the other parent fulfills his duty by paying a part of the maintenance costs.

Paternity of the Child.

The paternity of the child, according to the Norwegian law, must be discovered in every case, it being held that society, as well as the child, has a right to know the social position of both parents. If the courts do not venture to state the fact of paternity, but are convinced of relationship between the parents during the questioned time, the possible father will be held to pay.

But the progress in Germany has been slower. When, from time to time, it is reported that women officials of the [illegible] or telegraphs, or a teacher, have [illegible] because of illegitimate maternity we all protest against this unconstitutional action, but the ministry replies, quite as in olden times, that the dismissal was ordered for immoral conduct. But who would think of enforcing the same penalty for the illegitimate paternity of state officials?

Even the professional unions of women officials, in declarations of their attitude, have joined in the short-sighted policy of the government, without realizing that they do not serve true morality, but only hypocrisy. Recently, however, in a conference of the household budget of the Reichstag, an article was rejected which decisively declares that illegitimate paternity of officials is not cause for dismissal. It will be seen, therefore, that our movement is making progress.

The department of justice has issued a decree that in official intercourse every unmarried mother is entitled to be addressed as "Frau."

On Four-Wheel Brakes

There is little difference mechanically between two-wheel brake and four-wheel brake mechanisms.

Front-wheel brakes are merely added capacity, of conventional design. All four brakes are operated by the foot pedal.

The emergency brakes on rear wheels or transmission, operated by the hand lever, are retained in all four-wheel brake systems.

Controversy already exists between four-wheel brake advocates as to the relative merit of external or internal types of brake pressure on front wheels.

The duplication of parts, added weight, and increased friction of four-wheel brakes are common knowledge.

If four-wheel brakes were necessary, safe, and simple in operation, their existence would be justified, even with these impediments.

The factory makes proper adjustment of clearances between brake linings and drums.

After the factory ships the car, its responsibility ceases for brake adjustments, and the responsibility is shifted to the owner.

Electric starters, battery ignition, and vacuum tanks are acknowledged developments in the evolution of the automobile. They are built complete, encased in housings by the factory, are practically automatic and require few adjustments. Four-wheel brakes are in an entirely different category.

Numerous dealers and factory branch salesmen selling four-wheel brake cars, are already advising buyers that the front brakes may be disconnected, if they are not wanted. This would mean, of course, that the extra weight and impediments would be carried around uselessly.

Other front-wheel brakes are adjusted for such weak pressure that they cannot lock the front wheels, and the brakes are thus merely camouflage.

Four-wheel brakes will cause more trouble and accidents in a month than they will prevent in a year.

In fact, the Rolls-Royce Company states that "they show such decidedly dangerous disadvantages that they are considered unsafe to put in the hands of the general public, and are not nearly the equal of the powerful, efficient, lasting, and easily equalized brake design now employed in our design."

Four-wheel brakes have been a bone of contention in England since 1910, and yet today only 5 or 6 of the 150 odd English makes of cars use them at all. Several manufacturers use them as optional equipment, or furnish them on one of their models only.

Adherents of four-wheel brakes claim that they (1) permit quicker stopping and (2) prevent skidding. These are the only claims made for four-wheel brakes. With front-wheel brakes fully applied, quicker stopping is possible. This is not denied.

That quick stopping which locks the front wheels is an advantage, is vigorously denied. Such stopping is positively dangerous, because steering control is immediately lost.

The claim that four-wheel brakes prevent skidding and sliding is denied. No matter what kind of brakes are used, skidding will occur if wheels are locked before the momentum of the car is offset by the resistance of the road or pavement, whether dry or wet.

Skidding on wet pavements can be reduced to the minimum, with either two- or four-wheel brakes, only by slowing down speed and gentle brake pressure with clutch engaged.

Disadvantages of Four-Wheel Brakes

Against the only advantage (?) of four-wheel brakes, namely, quicker stopping, there are six serious disadvantages which make them mechanically impracticable, dangerous, uncomfortable, and expensive to owners, as follows:

1. Danger of Accidents. With permission, we quote from a recent circular of the Rolls-Royce Company to their dealers, upon which we cannot improve:

> "Basically, the fault with front-wheel brakes lies in the danger of front-wheel skids, which are uncontrollable and consequently vastly more dangerous than a rear-wheel skid.
> "It must be appreciated, first of all, that for their ability to steer the car the front wheels depend on their rolling motion. When front wheels cease to roll they lose all power to steer the car, which slides straight ahead on a flat road, or into the ditch if on a crowned or cambered road.
> "When the brakes are used in an emergency it is of primary importance that the direction of the car should be under control; that is, that the car can be steered from the time that the brakes are applied until it is brought to a complete stop.
> "When an obstacle suddenly presents itself (as in night driving) the driver's instinct is to immediately apply the brakes as hard as possible.
> "If, under these conditions, the front wheels are suddenly locked, disaster may overtake the driver, through inability to control the car's direction, even though it may stop before meeting the obstacle.
> "In traffic driving, the ability to dodge—to control the direction of the car—is of almost equal importance with the ability to stop.
> "On a wet or sprinkled city street, granting that the front-wheel brakes were perfectly equalized, the car would slide straight ahead unable to take advantage of traffic conditions, either right or left.
> "If the brakes were not perfectly equalized, immediately the pressure was applied, the front wheels would take on a skid, which would be uncontrollable, in whichever direction the equalization of the brakes was faulty.
> "In traffic driving, under most favorable conditions (perfectly equalized brakes and dry pavement) a sudden application of the brakes checks the car so precipitately that cars following have been known to crash into the car ahead, causing a rear end wreck through not having stopping room and time.
> "It is, of course, obvious that front-wheel brakes present double the difficulty of keeping the brakes properly equalized.
> "Aside from the above apparent defects in front or four-wheel braking, there is the stiffening effect on the steering to take into consideration when the brakes are applied, and the drag on the steering unless the braking effect on both wheels is absolutely equalized. This, of itself, constitutes a serious disadvantage reflected in the handling of the car."

2. Adjustments by Owner. Brakes must be properly adjusted, lubricated, and kept free from dirt, gravel, and foreign substances, to prevent unequal pressure of brakes and possible locking of front wheels. The burden of this responsibility rests on the owner, not on the factory.

3. Added Impediments and Lubrication. Four-wheel brakes double the number of parts in the braking mechanism, add about one hundred pounds of unsprung weight to the front end of the car, and create from twenty to thirty additional places (mostly inaccessible) requiring lubrication which must be applied by hand.

4. Decreased Car Efficiency. The added weight, extra parts, and increased friction resulting from four-wheel brakes decrease to some degree the efficiency of the car. Poorer acceleration, reduced hill-climbing ability, and increased gasoline consumption result.

5. Harder Steering and Control. The increase in unsprung weight, added parts, and friction necessarily increase the strength required to steer the car and to operate the brakes.

6. Expense of Maintenance. Extra service work in repairing, adjusting, and relining brakes puts the car in the shop oftener and increases the expense of maintenance.

Patent Situation

Four-wheel brakes have been in existence for about twenty years, during which time thousands of patents have been taken out in Europe and the United States, many of which have expired, and it is very doubtful if there are any basic patents preventing the use of four-wheel brakes.

European Experience

European manufacturers have experimented with four-wheel brakes for two decades. English manufacturers generally refuse to use them, although there are a few exceptions.

French manufacturers use them more generally, but many cars are equipped with "servo mechanisms," which are an added attachment intended to prevent locking of front wheels, insure equalization, ease the pedal pressure, etc., but this device introduces further complications of weight, lubrication and expense.

Trade Authorities

AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRIES—July 12, 1923

> "In some cases the layout is such that the act of steering tends to release the front-wheel brake, rendering it less effective when the wheels are cramped. If, with this arrangement, steering is made harder, or the brakes less effective on a curve, or when the vehicle must make a sudden turn—as it must often do in an emergency—there is grave reason to doubt whether the braking is any safer with four- than with two-wheel brakes."

MOTOR WORLD—June 6, 1923

> "If necessary precautions are not taken, skidding is liable to be more frequent and more serious than with rear brakes only."

Studebaker's Position

Studebaker research and engineering departments have been studying, experimenting with, and testing four-wheel brake mechanisms for two years.

These tests merely convince us that four-wheel brakes are unnecessary, mechanically impracticable, and dangerous in the hands of unskilled drivers.

The 1924 model Studebaker cars are equipped with brakes on the rear wheels only. The foot pedal operates the external contracting brakes and easily locks both wheels.

The hand lever operates the internal expanding brakes, and likewise locks the wheels easily.

The foot brakes are used in driving, and the hand brakes to hold the car still when parked on grades, also in emergencies, if necessary.

Studebaker brakes are safe, simple, and practicable. There are no more reliable brakes in use on any automobiles.

The 1924 model Studebaker cars are not, and will not be, equipped with four-wheel brakes

George S. Connell Elected Treasurer Penna. Kiwanis

ALTOONA, Oct. 6.—George S. Connell, district trustee of the Connellsville Kiwanis Club, was elected district treasurer of the Pennsylvania Kiwanis district at the state convention which concluded its sessions here yesterday afternoon. Mr. Connell was elected by a vote of 29 to 17 over Irvin E. Robinson of Harrisburg.

The nomination of Mr. Connell by former District Governor James G. Sanderson of Scranton came as a surprise. It was, Mr. Sanderson said, a reward for unusually efficient service to Kiwanis during the past year. It is exceptional for a person so young in Kiwanianism as Mr. Connell to be so highly honored.

Herbert A Moore of DuBois was elected district governor over E. H Zroomer of Altoona, 32 to 15, succeeding Dr. Wilbur H. Norcross of Carlisle. Charles F Taylor also of DuBois was elected district secretary by acclamation, succeeding Fred S. Reese of Carlisle. Greensburg won out over Conneaut Lake as the place for holding the 1924 district convention. The convention just concluded, with more than 600 Pennsylvanians in attendance, has been one of the best ever held.

The Connellsville Club was represented by Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Goldsmith, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. George S. Connell.

Hide Your Waistline When Wearing Sweater

Many women find that the most beautiful sweater does not look well worn over a skirt, because the waistline of the skirt breaks the attractive appearance of the sweater by beginning a space of another color from that showing through the upper part. To overcome this unattractive feature, wear a slip the length of the sweater in place of the corset cover brassiere or shorter undergarment. The slip can be made loose or tight like a brassiere, but it should be worn over the skirt, covering the waistline, and should reach to within half an inch of the bottom of the sweater. When sleeveless slipons are worn over blouses, the blouse should be worn outside the skirt.

WATCH OWNED BY MAJ. ANDRE

Timepiece Carried by British Officer Among Treasures of New York Historical Society.

The silver watch which Maj. John Andre is said to have carried when he was captured has recently become the property of the New York Historical society. In 1817 a small volume was printed entitled "Vindication of the Captors of Major Andre.' There were printed in this book the affidavits of Isaac Van Wart and John Paulding, two of the captors of Andre, describing the capture. Both affidavits refer only to a gold watch which Andre offered to his captors for his release and make no mention of a silver watch.

Turning, however, to the statement of Ensign Samuel Bowman of the Massachusetts line, one learns that this officer was for 24 hours preceding Andre's execution constantly with the prisoner, with whom he discussed his capture, and that Major Andre told him he was robbed "of the few guineas which he had with him and the two watches which he then wore, one of gold and the other of silver.

The silver watch is of the "bull's eye" type and the hallmarks indicate that it was made in 1760. On the inner case is an inscription crudely engraved "James Oglethorpe, February 7, 1725," for which there is no plausible accounting. The whereabouts of the gold watch is unknown. It was exhibited at Philadelphia at the time of the centennial, in 1876.

The Problem of Eye Health

Is a very important one. It applies to all classes of people of all ages and both sexes.

It is known that most eyes are far from normal, so that this subject should have a direct appeal to thousands who never give it a thought until they are really forced to it. By rights EVERYONE should have their eyes examined so that if a defect in vision is present, it can be given the necessary attention before it is allowed to go too far. Too many keep putting it off until they cannot be made to see normally. Some eyes are in such shape that all that glasses will do is improve the vision. We cannot promise perfect vision in every case but what we do promise is the best vision possible in the circumstances, and that is a distinct advantage to the patient. The person who uses judgment in looking after his eyes is more assured of good vision and comfort in later years than the person who does not think of his eye welfare and just "buys a pair of glasses" where he thinks he gets them the cheapest.

We use no drops nor drugs in our examination. Modern instruments and appliances make it unnecessary.

Tornadoes Will Play Wabash Team Tomorrow; Is First Sunday Game

Local Independent Grid Outfit Will Get Real Test of Strength.

FIELD OUTSIDE OF CITY

The Connellsville Elk Tornadoes will open their foot ball season at their new field on top of Limestone Hill, along the Vanderbilt road, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The opponents of the team will be the Wabash team of Pittsburg

The Tornadoes have been practicing diligently in preparation for the game. The team's strength is unknown but will receive a severe test in tomorrow's game.

The clash will mark the first attempt of any organization to stage Sunday football in this end of the county. The ministerial association of Connellsville has taken steps to block the Sunday sports but unaware of the fact that the Tornadoes were contemplating playing on Sunday until it was too late to halt tomorrow's game, will concentrate their efforts of having future Sunday dates cancelled. An attorney has been retained in the matter.

A big crowd at tomorrow's game is looked for. Regardless of the fact that they have not yet played this season, the Tornadoes are known far and wide and their past reputation will draw the fans. The Wabash team is given a high rating in grid circles.

Cokers Meet Washington High Today

The Connellsville and Washington High School football teams are slated to meet at Fayette Field this afternoon at 3 30 o'clock. It will be the third game for the Cokers and the initial one for their opponents

The visitors are reputed to have the best backfield in many years but the absence of several regulars from the line on account of injuries may be felt.

The Connellsvillians have improved wonderfully in the past week judging from the performances in scrimmage If the team shows the same stuff this afternoon Washington will realize it is up against a real football outfit For the past several seasons Washington has been winning regularly over the Cokers, but in other seasons, several years gone by, the locals were able to triumph. It is the ambition of the team to once more reap victory from the classy Washingtonians.

A big crowd of local fans was expected out for the game. The colorful Washington line-up, with its veterans of past seasons enrolled, is a combination that will attract many out-side fans and there are others who want to see what High School can do against one of the best teams on its schedule

In the Realm of Sports.

The Johnstown High School, which plays Connellsville next Saturday here, is scheduled to meet the Windber High team at Windber this afternoon The team lost to Conemaugh 13 last week.

R. B Smith, superintendent of schools, is missing his second High School game in 13 years today He is at Pittsburg attending the clash between Pitt and the eleven of his alma mater, LaFayette College. He will be "at home" for the remainder of the season. Mrs Smith and son Joseph, accompanying the superintendent.

The High School student body held a cheering practice in the auditorium yesterday afternoon after school. Charles A. Dale McCormick, a former grid captain and an active member of the alumni, addressed the crowd. He urged a better display of school spirit on the sidelines predicting more victories if the students took it in themselves to give greater moral support to the team.

Connie Mack Didn't Try Out Barrett Long Enough

Connie Mack of old the wizard at changing ball players into stars in new positions, didn't try out Bill Barrett long enough

"Babeon' Bill's sensational batting and outfielding with the White Sox only proves that Connie knew something, but didn't stick to it long enough.

Bill came to the A's from the New England semi pros in 1921 as a pitcher Connie sent him to Earl Mack's Moline Three-I team for a season and decided that he wasn't a pitcher.

But for his batting and all-round baseball ability, Connie switched him to shortstop. He was carded to be the 1922 Athletics' shortstop until a grounder hit him in the eye at the Eagle Pass training camp

That bad bounding ball made him grounder shy. Connie decided he wasn't any infielder and released him

Umpire in Grandstand

A Northern man, spending the summer in the South, went to see the last game of a series between two local teams For a time he could not observe any umpire, but at last he spied him sitting up in the grandstand among the spectators

"Great guns, man!" the Northerner exclaimed to a native. "What's the umpire doing up in the grandstand?"

"Well," the native explained, "the spectators used to accuse him of bum work so much that he allowed that if the folks up in the grandstand could see every play so durned good, he'd better go up there to do his umpirin'."—Everybody's Magazine

Britisher Covers Three Miles Under 15 Minutes

William Cotterel of the British army, one of England's best distance runners, recently turned in a performance of distinction.

He ran three miles under 14 minutes 21 seconds. The great Finnish exponent, Paavo Nurmi, ran the distance in 14 minutes 8 4-10 seconds Alfred Shrubb's 14 minutes and 7 3 5 seconds was the world's best for nearly 20 years until Nurmi got going.

Ernest Culbert, outfielder of the Decatur team, will have employment during the winter and early spring for he has been engaged as athletic coach for a high school in Decatur.

ABE MARTIN — On Envy an' Discontent

UGLY FEELIN' CROPPIN' OUT

We reckon that'll allus be a liberal supply o' envy an' discontent in this country, but we believe th' ugly attitude o' th' poorly favored toward those who have hustled an succeeded is more marked t'day than ever before. Ther used t' be a little low murmurin' by those on th' curb when a nifty phaeton rolled by, an' ther used t' be some purty sharp remarks pass back an' forth when some feller appeared in a plug hat or some womanf swept by wearin' a seal skin sacque But a few years ago th' folks in ordinary circumstances so greatly outnumbered th' rich that they found comfort in numbers an ther wuzn' much open knockin' A whole lot o' new people have cleaned up big in th' last few years, some honestly, some almost honestly, an' some somehow But this is a sharp cunnin', business age when we've got t' be alert an' on th' jump when a war comes along still we don't know that any class has had any advantage over any other class in 'accumulatin' money since th war In loodin' about it seems t' us that all kinds o people have suddenly come t' th' front, while all kinds o' people have been left at th' post So all we've really got out o' th' world war is a brand new crop o nabobs—folks who saw ther opportunity an' rushed in, an' some folks who were jest carried in by th' current So we expect this is th' reason we hear so many mean comments, th' reason fer so much ugly feelin' But it's an awful waste o' time t' worry about an' knock those who have "hit it right" Flush times is jest like a p'litical landslide—a lot of inferior an' undeservin' people are carried in on th' wave, an' we reckon this is th' reason we see so many strange people doin th' work It don't git us nothin' t refer t' th time the Lark had t' lay out a fine of a dollar an cost ever' time we see him hop in his limousine, an' it don't help our own condition t be eternally harpin' about I'm Moots goin' t' Europe jest because she used t' milk nine cows In th ole days we could watch a citizen grow rich—it we'd long enough It wuz a slow, tedious process an' very few made th' grade In them times opportunity wuz as slow an uncertain about showin' up as a paperhanger, an folks didn't know as much about business an' war as they know t'day, But we've allus been, fer th' plain people, an' we don't propose t' desert a lot o' them now jest 'cause they're wearin' "knicks" an' enjoyin 'emselves.

The Paramount

"THE LONE FIGHTER." That motion picture fans have a fondness for action pictures which exude the atmosphere of our Western prairies and which abound in daring horseplay, thrilling adventure and romance, was demonstrated at Paramount Theatre, after they had witnessed the showing of "The Lone Fighter," a Sunset production starring J. B. Warner. The picture veritably brought down the house with enthusiasm. This is an indication of the ever increasing popularity of Western pictures. "The Lone Fighter" is the first of a series of Western subjects starring J. B. Warner and produced by Sunset Productions.

The Soisson

"Money, Money, Money!" Katherine MacDonald has been starred in eighteen productions, all of which have reached the theatre-going public through Associated First National Pictures, Inc. The last of the dozen and a half is entitled "Money, Money, Money!" an original story of Larry Evans, the popular novelist and magazinist, which was filmed under the direction of Tom Forman. 'Money, Money, Money!' will be made known to local theatre-goers for the last time at the Soisson tonight.

The Orpheum

THE ORPHEUM.

"BLUEBEARD'S EIGHTH WIFE"—Gloria Swanson's latest Paramount picture, produced by Sam Wood, is a picturization of Charlton Andrews' adaptation of Alfred Savoir's celebrated French farce. It is said to afford Miss Swanson one of the strongest roles of her screen career, and, what her women admirer will relish most perhaps, provides her with ample opportunites for the display of amazing gowns. It will be at the Orpheum Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The story is that of a beautiful daughter of French nobility whose father is impoverished and wishes to marry her off to a man of wealth. His wish becomes reality when a rich American meets and falls in love with her. She also loves him.

Then it is learned that the American is a "youthful Bluebeard" and has been married seven times. One wife, it is learned, died. The other six he divorced. Miss Swanson as the eighth wife is shocked by the cold-blooded business arrangement made of her marriage and determines she will not be like the other wives, divorced.

So she becomes his wife in name only and exasperates him to continual outbursts of temper. But she also awakens his love and the real manhood in him. As a final taunt, she causes herself to be found in a compromising position with another man. Her husband is jealous and both realize he really loves her. She agrees to give him a divorce but he, realizing what she means to him, does not want it. Instead, he goes to her humbly, her sweetheart.

"TO THE LAST MAN," further proof that the screen draws its talent from all walks of life has been adduced. The cast of "To the Last Man," a Zane Grey production, which is at the Orpheum today is made up of players from all walks in life. Of the principal players Richard Dix designed to become a doctor, Lois Wilson a school teacher, Noah Beery a farmer, Robert Edeson a painter and writer, while Frank Campeau never had any other ambitions outside of theatricals. Victor Fleming directed this Paramount picture, which tells the story of a feud of the late eighties fought to a finish in the Tonto Basin, Arizona, one of America's most rugged spots. The picture was filmed on the identical scenes, where the battles of the feud were fought.

Are Skimping Food To Buy Gasoline

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Many American families are going hungry to save money enough for the Sunday's automobile gasoline supply, it is declared by Dr. Alonzo Taylor, director of the Food Research Institute of Stanford University, in a statement made public at a health conference here.

Dr. Taylor, who was diet adviser to the Hoover Food Administration during the war, warns of a dangerous movement towards restriction of the American family diet in order to spend the saving on luxuries.

"There is a striking amount of malnutrition in the families of the well-to-do," the statement reads. "It is common to find people denying themselves their accustomed subsistence and even proper diet in order to enjoy trips and luxuries. There is evidence all over the country that food is being skimped that gasoline may be purchased. A large population in our cities lunches on tidbits and desserts and dines on delicatessen. For the welfare of the American nation the standards of normal nutrition must be maintained despite the claims of amusements, accessories and non essentials."

"That need constitute no obstacle, sir; no obstacle at all. The animal sleeps in a basket in the hall. . . . Perhaps you are familiar with the interior of the house, sir?"

"I haven't been inside it since I was at school. I'm Mr. Hignett's cousin, you know."

"Indeed, sir? I wasn't aware. Mr. Hignett sprained his ankle this morning, poor gentleman."

"Has he?" said Sam, not particularly interested. "I used to stay with him," he went on, "during the holidays sometimes, but I've practically forgotten what the place is like inside. I remember the hall vaguely. Fireplace at one side, one or two suits of armor standing about, a sort of window-ledge near the front door . . ."

"Precisely, sir. It is close beside that window ledge that the animal's basket is situated. If I administer a slight soporific . . ."

"Yes, but you haven't explained yet how I am to get into the house in the first place."

"Quite easily, sir. I can admit you through the drawing room windows while dinner is in progress."

"Fine!"

"You can then secrete yourself in the cupboard in the drawing room. Perhaps you recollect the cupboard to which I refer, sir?"

"No, I don't remember any cupboard. As a matter of fact, when I used to stay at the house the drawing room was barred. . . . Mrs. Hignett wouldn't let us inside it for fear we should smash her china. Is there a cupboard?"

Iron-Souled as This Woman Was, Her Fingers Trembled as She Wrote.

"Immediately behind the piano, sir. A nice, roomy cupboard. I was glancing into it myself in a spirit of idle curiosity only the other day. It contains nothing except a few knick-knacks on an upper shelf. You could lock yourself in from the interior, and be quite comfortably seated on the floor till the household retired to bed."

"When would that be?"

"They retire quite early, sir, as a rule. By half-past ten the coast is generally clear. At that time I would suggest that I came down and knocked on the cupboard door to notify you that all was well."

Sam was glowing with frank approval.

"You know, you're a master-mind!" he said, enthusiastically.

"You're very kind, sir!"

"One of the lads, by Jove!" said Sam. "And not the worst of them! I don't want to flatter you, but there's a future for you in crime, if you cared to go in for it."

"I am glad that you appreciate my poor efforts, sir. Then we will regard the scheme as passed and approved?"

"I should say we would! It's a bird!"

"Very good, sir."

"I'll be round at about a quarter to eight. Will that be right?"

"Admirable, sir."

"And, I say, about that soporific. . . . Don't overdo it. Don't go killing the little beast."

"Oh, no, sir."

"Well," said Sam, "you can't say it's not a temptation. And you know what you Napoleons of the Underworld are!"

CHAPTER XVI

Episode One.

If there is one thing more than another which weighs upon the mind of a story-teller as he chronicles the events which he has set out to describe, it is the thought that the reader may be growing impatient with him for straying from the main channel of his tale and devoting himself to what are after all minor developments. The story, for instance, opened with Mrs. Horace Hignett, the world-famous writer on Theosophy, going over to America to begin a lecture tour; and no one realizes more keenly than I do that I have left Mrs. Hignett flat. I have thrust that great thinker into the background and concentrated my attention on the affairs of one who is both her mental and moral inferior, Samuel Marlowe. I seem at this point to see the reader—a great brute of a fellow with bristling eyebrows and a jaw like the ram of a battleship, the sort of a fellow who is full of determination and will stand no nonsense—rising to remark that he doesn't care what happened to Samuel Marlowe and that what he wants to know is, how Mrs. Hignett made out on her lecturing tour. Did she go big in Buffalo? Did she have 'em tearing up the seats in Schenectady? Was she a riot in Chicago and a cyclone in St. Louis? Those are the points on which he desires information, or give him his money back.

I cannot supply the information. And, before you condemn me, let me hastily add that the fault is not mine but that of Mrs. Hignett herself. The fact is, she never went to Buffalo, Schenectady saw nothing of her. She did not get within a thousand miles of Chicago nor did she penetrate to St. Louis. For the very morning after her son Eustace sailed for England in the liner Atlantic, she happened to read in the paper one of those abridged passenger lists which the journals of New York are in the habit of printing, and got a nasty shock when she saw that, among those whose society Eustace would enjoy during the voyage was Miss Wilhelmina Bennett, daughter of J. Rufus Bennett of Bennett, Mandelbaum and company. And within five minutes of digesting this information, she was at her desk writing out telegrams canceling all her engagements. Iron-souled as this woman was, her fingers trembled as she wrote. She had a vision of Eustace and the daughter of J. Rufus Bennett strolling together on moonlit decks, leaning over rails damp with sea-spray, and, in sort, generally starting the whole trouble over again.

In the height of the tourist season it is not always possible for one who wishes to leave America to spring on to the next boat. A long morning's telephoning to the offices of the Cunard and the White Star brought Mrs. Hignett the depressing information that it would be a full week before she could sail for England. That meant that the inflammable Eustace would have over two weeks to conduct an uninterrupted wooing, and Mrs. Hignett's heart sank, till suddenly she remembered that so poor a sailor as her son was not likely to have had leisure for any strolling on the deck during the voyage of the Atlantic.

Having realized this, she became calmer and went about her preparations for departure with an easier mind. The danger was still great, but there was a good chance that she might be in time to intervene. She wound up her affairs in New York and, on the following Wednesday, boarded the Nuronia bound for Southampton.

The Nuronia is one of the slowest of the Cunard boats. It was built at a time when delirious crowds used to swoon on the dock if an ocean liner broke the record by getting across in nine days. It rolled over to Cherbourg, dallied at that picturesque port for some hours, then sauntered across the channel and strolled into Southampton water in the evening of the day on which Samuel Marlowe had sat in the lane plotting with Webster, the valet. At almost the exact moment when Sam, sliding through the window of the drawing room, slid into the cupboard behind the piano, Mrs. Hignett was standing at the customs barrier telling the officials that she had nothing to declare.

Mrs. Hignett was a general who believed in forced marches. A lesser woman might have taken the boat train to London and proceeded to Windles at her ease on the following afternoon. Mrs. Hignett was made of sterner stuff. Having fortified herself with a late dinner, she hired an automobile and set out on the cross-country journey. It was only when the car, a genuine antique, had broken down three times in the first ten miles, that it became evident to her that it would be much too late to go to Windles that night, and she directed the driver to take her instead to the "Blue Boar" in Windlehurst, where she arrived, tired but thankful to have reached it at all, at about eleven o'clock.

At this point many, indeed most women, having had a tiring journey, would have gone to bed: but the familiar Shropshire air and the knowledge that half an hour's walking would take her to her beloved home acted on Mrs. Hignett like a restorative. One glimpse of Windles she felt that she must have before she retired for the night, if only to assure herself that it was still there. She had a cup of coffee and a sandwich brought to her by the night porter, whom she had roused from sleep, for bedtime is early in Windlehurst, and then informed him that she was going for a short walk and would ring when she returned.

Her heart leaped joyfully as she turned in at the drive gates of her home and felt the well-remembered gravel crunching under her feet. The silhouette of the ruined castle against the summer sky gave her the feeling which all returning wanderers know. And, when she stepped onto the lawn and looked at the black bulk of the house, indistinct and shadowy with its buckling of trees, tears came into her eyes. She experienced a rush of emotion which made her feel quite faint, and which lasted until, on tiptoeing nearer to the house in order to gloat more adequately upon it, she perceived that the French windows of the drawing room were standing ajar. Sam had left them like this in order to facilitate departure, if a hurried departure should by any mischance be rendered necessary, and drawn curtains had kept the household from noticing the fact.

Buick Four-Wheel Brakes

Buick four-wheel brakes not only double the braking efficiency of the new 1924 Buicks by doubling the braking surface, but for the same reason lessen the wear on each brake mechanism in proportion. Buick four-wheel brakes last longer. They require less adjustment and the linings do not wear down as quickly.

Simple in construction and positive in action, Buick four-wheel brakes give added safety under all circumstances. They are of the Buick external contracting type and each brake has a three-quarter wrap or grip instead of the usual half-way grip.

Buick four-wheel brakes are operated with a slight pressure on the service brake pedal. They act quickly, smoothly and easily.

All 1924 Buicks (both fours and sixes) have these new four-wheel brakes. In addition, the 1924 Buicks embody further advancements in power, in construction and in beauty that make Buick more than ever "the Standard of Comparison".

THE thrill of eager performance—the luxury of rarely equalled riding ease—the satisfaction of smart appearance—all are yours in 5 or 7-passenger Paige Sedans.

Think of the riding ease of the Paige Sedan, with its rear springs more than 5 feet long, snubbers front and rear, and 131-inch wheelbase. However rough the road, no hostile bumps can ever pass these defenders of your comfort. And deep, softly cushioned seats invite relaxation. Rarely will you find a car that rides as smoothly as your Paige. Never a body squeak or rattle to annoy, for double strips of patent leather keep metal from touching metal or wood.

Both 5 and 7-passenger Paige Sedans are luxuriously finished—rich upholstery; silvered fittings; silk shades; elaborately fitted vanity case; walnut instrument board with all instruments under one oval glass. Nothing has been forgotten that adds to comfort and convenience. All those conveniences you must buy for a fine car, come with your Paige at no extra cost. See the list below. Compare the Paige with other fine cars—add the cost of this equipment to their prices—and you will realize the startling value of Paige. Truly Paige buyers benefit by the saving in Paige overhead, made possible by tremendous volume on the Paige-built Jewett. The car itself proves the saving for you.

Drive the Paige yourself to compare its performance with any car you've ever driven. You will be amazed at your perfect mastery over the great power of the smooth, silent Paige motor! Here is willing ability, under the daintiest guidance, to outperform most any other car. Pass others on the road if you like—have them behind in traffic—flit easily up hills in high where others shift and stall.

Crawling through crowded streets at 2 miles an hour, throttle controlled, or flashing over the open roads as fast as you will ever want—Paige obeys your slightest command. Ball-bearing steering spindles—gentle, non-stalling clutch—quiet, easy gear shifting—give perfect performance under any guidance. Try it yourself. Drive the Paige in a demonstration.
